JERRY STILLER

Jerry moved from Livingston, Montana to Texas in 1985 when he began working for Texas Instruments Defense and Raytheon until he retired in 2014. Jerry has a Bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering and is a Registered Professional Engineer in Texas. Jerry specialized in prototype to production designs of night vision equipment for aircraft and ground vehicles, gimbals and other stabilized platforms and missile seekers, where very tight tolerances, intense structural analysis and testing, machine shop liaison and high performance finishes are the norm. Jerry did all of the computer design and structural analysis.

In 1997 Jerry wanted to start a business and it was a toss up between guns and custom motorcycles. He chose guns because it seemed like a more stable endeavor and took less capital than the motorcycle business, and that proved to be the right choice. Unlike most benchrest companies that started from someone's hobby, building actions started as a business for Jerry with the startup of Stiller Precision Firearms. He developed the machine setups and wrote all the CNC code for all of the products at his previous company, Stiller Precision Firearms and currently for Holeshoot Arms LLC. Jerry sold Stiller Precision Firearms in 2017 and currently runs Holeshoot Arms LLC. Jerry, Bad Bob Cleveland, Les Browning and Vickey Alley are at his business pretty much every day doing something. Randy Owens also has his stock business in the same building and Jerry helps him as needed with technical issues.

Jerry Stiller started shooting with his dad as a kid and he and his friends used to shoot ground squirrels and prairie dogs almost daily as teens. In 1998, not long after starting Stiller Precision Firearms, he began shooting centerfire benchrest. He loves the challenge of building the best guns and making them work. In that same year, he shot his first match with a rifle he built on one of his own actions. He then started shooting rimfire benchrest about 10 years ago after he started building rimfire actions.

Jerry shoots all over the US, but mostly around the Dallas, TX area, shooting most every month in Denton, Arlington or Waco. He is the match director at the North Texas Shooter's Association Club in Denton.

When he isn't shooting, he enjoys working on actions and products for Killough Shooting Sports. But, one of his other hobbies is hot rod cars. He toys with the idea of getting back into drag racing, but says it seems like way too much work now.

Winning last years' PSL Main Event has been his greatest accomplishment to date. He is also very proud of accomplishments by shooters using his actions, like Jason Thornhill, Jim Morehead, Donald Hamblin and others.
